

Rajan Anandan is the Vice President, South East Asia and India and is responsible for Sales and Operations in the region. Rajan is focused on expanding the Internet ecosystem in the region, increasing adoption among consumers and businesses and accelerating innovation. South East Asia and India, with over two billion consumers and 500 million Internet users, is the fastest growing Internet user base in the world.

Rajan joined Google in early 2011 to lead Google's business in India. His career includes leadership roles at Microsoft, Dell and McKinsey & Company. Prior to Google, Rajan was the Managing Director of Microsoft India and built India's largest software business. Before joining Microsoft, he was a Vice President with Dell where he held several global leadership roles including that of the Executive Assistant to the Chairman Michael Dell. Before Dell, Rajan was a Partner with McKinsey & Company in Chicago.

He holds an MSc from Stanford University and a BSc from MIT. Rajan is married to Radhika and has a 9 year old daughter Maya.